

ABSTRACT

An electrochemical energy storage device with at least two electrodes and an electrolyte, a carrier material for the electrolyte being disposed between the electrodes, and the carrier material including a porous material in whose inner pore structure a perfluoropolyether and/or fluorinated substance is present.